

ABSTRACT

Production plant featuring automatic making and packing machines, each of which has a relevant control
5 unit; a collection computer awaits receipt of information packages transmitted independently and asynchronously by the control units over a first communication network; and the collection computer organizes and processes the information packages received from the control units to 10 generate overall data accessible over a second communication network, with respect to which the collection computer acts as a server.

10005181.120504